STUDENT SUCCESS STORY

Takaya supported Murray, attending a UK state school, with his application to UCL to study Geography, one of the most prestigious departments in the UK for this degree.

Takaya was glad to support Murray throughout the entire application process, from working on his extra-curricular activities, personal statement, extra-curricular reading and how to make Murray stand out against the competitive number of applicants for UCL.

With Takaya's support, Murray was successful in his application for his first-choice university and subject, and is currently attending UCL in his final year.

Takaya has supported almost 100 students in their university applications, and is always happy to support more students in realising their dreams.
